

LIVESTOCK TRANSPORT

A livestock carrier on a return journey may be going right past the location where you need stock picked up – want to contact him?

When you log a job on Livestock Transport Direct it will be viewed by our large database of livestock carriers throughout Australia. Some may be on the road now on a return journey. List the load on Livestock Transport Direct and an email is sent to our registered livestock carriers notifying them of your job. The livestock carriers will contact you directly to negotiate for your business if they can pick up your stock. It's free for you to enter stock online and it's free for carriers to view the listing.

Livestock Transport Direct is fast becoming an essential business tool for Stock & Station Agents looking for the best deal for their client's livestock transport requirements. You will also personally benefit when it only takes 5 minutes to place a listing on the Livestock Transport Direct website – no need to make numerous calls looking for someone to transport stock.

The Livestock Transport Direct website is open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week – list your load at any time of the day or night.

How is it free? What's the catch? How do you make an income from a website I hear you ask? Livestock Transport Direct derives income from business advertising on the website.

Livestock Transport Direct is a new concept for the livestock industry and we have had excellent feedback from the agents and farmers that have already used the website. We invite you to visit the website to see what we are all about.

Visit the Livestock Transport Direct website at www.ltdirect.com.au

If you have any questions about the website or need assistance please do not hesitate to call on 02 6364 5480

Trevor and Rachel Griffith
"Nelangie"